

Deerfield Beach Orchid Society CATTLEYA CURRENTS

November 2023
Volume 58 Issue 11

President's Message

Hi Orchid Lovers,

Have you been saving your money and going over your wish list getting ready for our annual Deerfield Beach Orchid Society Show and Sale, Orchid Obsession, on Saturday and Sunday, November 11-12 from 10:00 am – 5:00 pm both days at Safe Schools Institute in Boca Raton? Many of our members have signed up to volunteer, and your admission is free if you are volunteering. General admission to the show is $5.00, children under 12 are free, and free parking.

Our 12 Florida orchid vendors and six orchid-related vendors include: Bredren Orchids, Florida SunCoast Orchids, Jim-N-I Orchids, Krull-Smith Orchids, Mac's Orchids, Odom's Orchids, Orchids in Bloom, Quest Orchids, Ritter Tropic 1 Orchids, Smiley Orchids, So Orchids, and Soroa Orchids. Our orchid-related vendors include: Atziana Inspired, Bactra Plant Stand Factory, Green Barn Orchid Supply, hangapot.com, Liquid Gold Honey, and Snowwhite Personal Creations.

I am looking forward to our November 14 speaker, Nick Ewy, Director of Collections at the Naples Botanical Garden. He will be discussing landscaping with orchids and other companion plants. Since I plan to buy many new orchids at our Orchid Obsession show, it will be great to know how some of them can be incorporated into our landscape because my orchid house is definitely getting a bit overcrowded.

Our annual potluck holiday party will be Saturday, December 2 at the Croatian American Social Club. Members who attend receive a beautiful free orchid. It is $10.00 for a guest. Sign-up sheets at the Orchid Obsession Show on November 11-12 and at our November 14 meeting. Each member is asked to bring an appetizer, salad, main dish, side dish, or dessert. There is a cash bar. For further information and to sign up, please contact: Cheryl Babcock by phone or text at 954-464-8996 or cherylraebabxx@gmail.com

Mark your calendar for Saturday, January 27, 2024, for our annual bus trip. We will be leaving from the Woman's Club of Deerfield Beach at 8:00 am and returning by 6:45 pm. Our stops include Quest Orchids, R.F. Orchids, Soroa Orchids, Succulent World, Banjong's Orchids, and Mac's Orchids. The $75.00 fee includes a light breakfast, lunch, and Happy Hour with adult beverages and hors d'oeuvres, and the infamous Orchid Raffle! Sign-up sheets at the Orchid Obsession Show on November 11-12 and at our November 14 meeting. Trip limited to first 40 DBOS members or guests who sign up and pay in full on/before January 9, 2024. Make checks payable to Deerfield Beach Orchid Society and mail to Cheryl Babcock, 5532 NW 60th Drive, Coral Springs, FL 33067, or call Kristina Brandt with credit card information at 954-661-7261. Seats are on a first come/first serve basis. For further information contact: Cheryl Babcock by phone or text at 954-464-8996 or cherylraebabxx@gmail.com

We had a fun-filled event at our annual Deerfield Beach Orchid Society picnic on Sunday, October 15. Fabulous food, fellowship, and BINGO!

Serena Roman, better known as the Vanda Lady, presented a fantastic program on Vandas at our October meeting, and we learned some important information from her. She had lovely orchids for sale and for the raffle table, and I was lucky enough to win one for me and one for my daughter and to purchase a couple others for us!

Happy Orchiding!

Cheryl Babcock,
DBOS President

Speaker of the Month

Nick Ewy

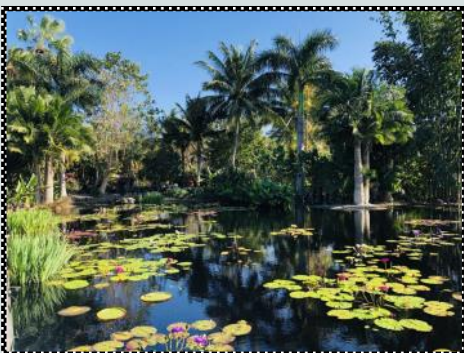

Director of Collections

Naples Botanical Garden

November 14, 2023 7:30 pm

“Landscaping with orchids and other companion plants”

Born and raised in Ann Arbor, Michigan, he has been a plant grower, collector, and gardener since early childhood. Pursuing a long-standing interest in rare and tropical plants, including orchids, aroids, and epiphytes, he worked at a rare plant nursery throughout high school. He earned his B.S. in Botany and Plant Pathology from Michigan State University (2001). Nick relocated to California so that he could grow these tropical plants outdoors and took a position at an upscale club and golf course. He then moved to Florida, where he was the Director of Horticulture for the American Orchid Society Botanical Garden and Lead Horticulturalist at the International Polo Club in Wellington. In 2013, he began working at Naples Botanical Garden as Associate Director of Horticulture and is now the Director of Collections. He is responsible for acquiring, managing, and maintaining a large and diverse collection of subtropical plants from around the world.

November in Your Orchid Collection

By Dr. Martin Motes

In November we can no longer afford to be dominated by the illusion, so easy here at the northern edge of the tropics, that summer will never end. Although Indian Summer persists for the whole winter in South Florida, November is the month to prepare our plants for those short sharp blasts of cold which are inevitably coming as each successive cold front pushes the overall temperature a little lower and a little lower. Each day is shorter too. The loss of daylight savings time should awake us to the fact that there are less hours of sunlight to save our plants from the chill of the night. Many genera are already anticipating this sea change and have completed their growths for the season. Some like Catasetum, Cycnoches, Calanthe and the nobile dendrobiums are even beginning to shed their foliage in preparation for the cool, dry season. While the Himalayan Dendrobium species of the nobile and Callista types, calanthes, cymbidiums and a few others, actually relish temperatures down to near freezing, and most cattleyas and Oncidium alliance species and hybrids are not bothered by temperatures in the mid-thirties, the majority of the genera which we grow, vandas, evergreen dendrobiums, Phalaenopsis and others, benefit from being protected from the cold. Now, while the first breathes of cool air remind us that more and stronger cold is in the offing, is the time to start thinking about protecting our plants.

In nature nearly all the tender tropical epiphytic orchids native to South Florida are found nestled in the bosom of deep hammocks where they are well protected from the wind. This observation leads us to think of protecting our orchids from the north and northwest winds. Creating or utilizing already existing wind breaks to the north and west of our orchids will limit the ability of the wind to steal the warmth out of our plants. The critical factor is not the low temperature that the air reaches but rather the temperature to which the plant tissue is chilled and for how long. This is why limiting the movement of cold air over our plants is essential. In still air, plant tissue (mostly water but with some dissolved salts) retains heat for a long time and is aided by the plants' metabolism. The very goings on of life generate heat, therefore considerable exposure to still air is needed to chill a plant to the temperature of the surrounding environment. Not so if wind enters the picture. Wind can quickly rob the plant's surfaces of heat, chilling the plants tissue deeper and deeper. When the plant's temperature tolerance is reached, at best growth ceases or worse yet damage ensues. Slowing the cooling process and limiting the hours of exposure to sub-optimal temperature is the best gift we can give our plants for the holidays.

Protecting our tender plants from exposure to wind must be our primary concern in preparing them for winter. Buildings, walls and even thick hedges can be very effective windbreaks slowing or stopping chill air. Choose places in your garden that offer this sort of protection to your orchid plants wherever possible. The geography of Florida plays into the equation as well. Because the Florida peninsular juts decidedly to the Southeast (Naples is due south of Jacksonville), protection from the Northwest wind is even more crucial than protection from the North wind on the east coast of Florida. Northwest winds are blowing out of the cold heart of the landmass while true North winds have in most locales usually blown over more warm water and less cold land. Regardless of the degree of north, safeguarding our collections
