President's Message

Hi Orchid Lovers and Happy New Year,

We hope that 2024 will be a year of good health and happiness for you and your family and plenty of orchid shopping for you! Add some orchids on your "wish list" to your collection. The DBOS will give you many opportunities to do this at our upcoming events, i.e., our annual bus trip to the growers and our annual auction, in addition to our raffle table plants at the January and February meetings. See related article about the bus trip and secure one of the few remaining seats.

We invite all our members to join us at our January 9 meeting and network with members that you do not know as well and meet our new members. We are having a panel presentation on "Landscaping with Orchids in Your Home Growing Area." Some of our great DBOS growers will be demonstrating how they incorporate orchids in their growing areas, i.e., on trees, fences, and specially built frames. Our orchid gurus include Grace Holliday, Joe Ortlieb, and John Pancoast. They will discuss various orchid alliances and how each of them pot or mount their orchids, how they water and fertilize (in hot months and cooler months), how they manage disease and pest control, and effective lighting for different orchids. Many of these panelist's landscape with sun-loving vandas of several types, and as a special treat we have secured a variety of sun-loving vandas from Motes Orchids for the raffle table.

Our February 13 speaker is Olivier Turina, discussing Catasetum's. March 12 is our 11th annual auction with Mac Rivenbark, Mac's Orchids, as our entertaining and informative auctioneer. Future speakers include John Romano on April 9. Thank you to Nick Ewy who spoke on "Landscaping with orchids and other companion plants" at our November meeting.

Final opportunity to sign-up for our Saturday, January 27 bus trip to the Miami and Homestead area and enjoy visiting Quest Orchids, R.F. Orchids, Soroa Orchids, Succulent World, Banjong's Orchids, and Mac's Orchids. The bus leaves the Woman's Club of Deerfield Beach promptly at 8:00 am, and we plan to return by 6:45 pm. Join us and bring a friend. Included are a light breakfast, catered lunch, Happy Hour, bus driver's gratuity, and our famous orchid raffle. Only a few seats remain, so payment must be received by January 10. Contact Cheryl Babcock at 954-464-8996 about paying by check made payable to the Deerfield Beach Orchid Society or Kristina Brandt for credit card payments at 954-661-7261.

A big thank you to your DBOS Board of Trustees listed on the side panel for their time and talents contributed over the past year to make our Society run so efficiently. We look forward to seeing you this year. Remember, it is time to renew your DBOS membership for 2024. We have a wonderful year lined up for you.

Happy Orchiding!

Program of the Month

Landscaping with Orchids in Your Home Growing Area

January 9, 2024 7:30 pm

Each of our Deerfield Beach Orchid Society (DBOS) members and panelists have a unique growing area that they have created for their orchid collections. As moderator of the panel, Cheryl Babcock will ask each of them to discuss what type of fertilizer mix they use (and the proportions of ingredients), what they do for disease and pest control, what sort of light works best for their orchids, and more.

Cheryl will share how she started mounting orchids on her trees thanks to inspiration and help from DBOS members. Her favorite vanda mounted on the tree is V. Merv. L. Velthuis x Ascda. Butterfly because it makes her think of a Monet painting with the ever-changing soft pastel colors as the bloom evolves over time.

Grace and Bill Holliday created Graceland and a breathtaking trellis with many vandas. Grace will discuss how she envisioned these structures, how she waters and maintains them, and how many vandas she thinks are on her trellis. She will focus on vandas because in addition to her vanda trellis she has a vanda house, vandas around a waterfall, and vandas wherever you look. She will tell us the name of her favorite vanda!

Joe Ortlieb and Dennis Pearl have an amazing courtyard with a stunning "tree of life" or "tree of color" taking the spotlight. Joe will discuss the vision he had to start it, how he mounts and adds orchids to it, and how he keeps it looking nice and not get out of control. He will focus on Cattleya's and how he pots or mounts them, what potting mix and proportions he uses. He will tell us the name of his favorite Cattleya!

John Pancoast has a limited growing area, and the orchids he brings for the monthly plant judging table are exquisite. He will tell us how he determines what orchids to add to his collection and some of the most unusual orchids he has. He will give a brief discussion on some other unusual orchids and tell us which orchid is his favorite!

The panelists will give a brief discussion on Dendrobium, Oncidium, Paphiopedlum, and Phalaenopsis Alliances and the potting mixture they use and how they care for these orchids.

In conclusion, each panelist will tell us their favorite orchid alliance and why, and they will tell us the name of their all-time favorite orchid! What a challenge! Okay, let's have them name their Top 2 or 3!

January in Your Orchid Collection

By Dr. Martin Motes

January is somewhat like December but in reverse, with each succeeding day bringing longer hours of sunlight until days are long enough that afternoons return at the end of the month bringing extra sunshine to warm us after the extra sharp cold snaps. January, like December, is cold and dry, in fact even colder and drier. Dry is good, cold can be very bad. We need to accentuate the positive by especially careful watering in January. By keeping our plants as dry as possible and spacing our waterings as far apart as possible, we conserve our potential to use water to protect our plants from the cold, keeping our powder dry, as it were. In January water early, water thoroughly when you do and do so sparingly. The cooler overall temperatures of January are much less dehydrating even to plants which have received less water. remember, many of our orchids come from seasonally dry and cool climates not so different from South Florida. Many orchids are equipped to handle the drier cooler conditions of our January. A good strategy is to "top-up" the light watering that our plants receive with the passing showers that each successive cold front brings. This slight additional irrigation may prove to be all the watering that many genera need. Such parsimony, preserves the possibility of using water on truly cold nights to warm our plants.

Water is the only feasible source of heat available to plants grown in the open, under trees, in shade houses or on patios in South Florida. Ground water here (and in most of the rest of the world is about 63 F. (16C). Water out of municipal systems is not far different. On truly cold nights turning on the water can be of great benefit to our plants, provided that they have not been over-watered in the days and weeks preceding, thus inviting the ever present fungi to do more damage than the cold. For this reason as well, in general, orchids are better off dry until temperatures approach frost or freezing. The logic for maintaining plants dry is not only to minimize fungal problems but also because cold air is typically very dry air. If plants are wet in very dry and rapidly moving air say 10 or more MPH, evaporative cooling can take place, chilling our orchids further and faster than they would if dry. When the water goes on it needs to be in heavy volume and it needs to stay on to keep the plants thoroughly bathed in its warmth. Very still air on the other hand, presents a different danger as frost is possible at temperatures higher than is commonly realized. In calm air frost can form at higher elevations and settle in on plants while the surface temperature is only in the upper 30's. The best forecast for nights when the temperature will hover near 40 is a light wind of 2-5 miles per hour. This light wind mixes the warm air near the surface and draws warm from the earth. Clear, cloudless, still nights with bright shining stars elevate the spirit but harbinger frost.

Forecasts of temperatures below 40 F should stimulate us to action.

If it is not practical to bring all the Phalaenopsis, vandas and hard cane dendrobiums into the house or garage, think of using water to help protect them. Shade cloth or even patio screen hold in a surprising amount of heat like an lacy Mantilla. Under screen, a fine mist head attached to a hose and left running beneath the bench or plant rack will provide several degrees of additional warmth that will often sufficiently temper the chill and ward off any light frost settling in. Growers with swimming pools frequently turn on the recirculating pump to keep a supply of warm water near the pool's

Annual Members' Holiday Party

DBOS members and their guests enjoyed another delightful potluck holiday dinner on Saturday, December 2nd. Members brought their signature holiday specialties and went home with a lovely six-inch potted orchid. Many of our members and guests also won one of the beautiful centerpieces made by two of our members, Madeline Felton and Grace Holliday.

MEMBERS' PLANTS

DBOS members, please send images of some of your favorite orchids at any time to your newsletter's editor at morkert.tm@gmail.com so we can share them with our membership. Mother Nature doesn't always allow some of our beautiful 'orchid babies' to bloom at the right time for our monthly meetings. We enjoy seeing your blooming orchids in the newsletter as well as in person on our members' table at the monthly meeting. We often see orchids that we put on our list of orchids to add to our collections. If we get enough of our members to submit photos each month, we can have a virtual orchid display. Please also continue to bring in your blooming orchids to our member's table for judging at our monthly meetings.
